Councilmember Frye Instrumental in Returning to Bi-Monthly Schedule for Water & Sewer Billing

On Wednesday, November 15, the City Council's Natural Resources & Culture (NR&C) Committee, chaired by Councilmember Frye, voted unanimously to return to bi-monthly billing cycles for water and sewer bills.

During a press conference the following day, Councilmember Frye stated that, "Before ratepayers are asked to consider any rate increases, we must first do everything we can to reduce costs and ensure the accuracy of the billing statements. Returning to a bi-monthly billing schedule for our water and sewer bills will save ratepayers over half a million dollars annually and ensure more accurate billing for residents. The change to monthly billing in 2003 was a costly mistake that needs to be corrected immediately."

"Returning to a bi-monthly billing schedule for our water and sewer bills will save ratepayers over half a million dollars annually..."

The city began billing water and sewer customers on a monthly basis in 2003. The change caused approximately $570,000 in increased costs annually due to additional supplies such as paper and postage. The change to monthly billing also resulted in residents receiving inaccurate water bills, and many were overcharged on a regular basis.

Under the monthly billing system, a customer receives a bill based upon actual consumption, followed by an estimated bill the next month. The estimated bill is calculated upon historic monthly use at the property. The following month, each customer's meter is again read and the consumption is verified. Unfortunately, the monthly billing approach, which actually read one month and estimated the next, became much more complicated for the Department and more costly for the consumers than originally anticipated.

The NR&C vote is the first step in the process to return water and sewer bills to bi-monthly schedules. The next measure is to bring an ordinance before the City Council, which is expected early next year.

Councilmember Frye thanks all of the community members who have voiced their opinions at the NR&C meeting and throughout the year. She is proud to have initiated this change and looks forward to seeing the new billing cycles make a change in the households of District Six and citywide.

On December 2, 2006, the new Serra Mesa-Kearny Mesa Branch Library finally opened its doors to the public!

The library is more than three times the size of the old Serra Mesa Branch, and includes outdoor courtyard areas that overlook the canyon behind the building. It houses 54,000 items, 18,400 of which are children's items and 3,100 items for teens. The library will also house the Pre-Schooler's Door to Learning Center, funded by the First Five Commission; a program specifically geared for children ages 5 and younger in preparation of grade school.

Councilmember Frye thanks Peter Rutman for the generous donation of a grand piano for the Community Room as well as the wonderful music by the Peter Rutman Jazz and Blues Band during the Grand Opening. Also, Councilmember Frye would like to extend a special thanks to Buzz Gibbs, the Chair of the Kearny Mesa Planning Group whose support helped realize the dream of this beautiful new library.

Make sure to check future issues of Frye Lights for upcoming events at the new Library!

Councilmember Frye and Westfield Initiate Pilot Program for Solar Powered Trash Compactors

On November 20, Councilmember Frye joined Westfield Senior Vice President of Development, Jonathan Bradhurst, and Regional Director of New Market Waste, Matthew Marquette, to introduce the first two solar-powered Big Belly trash compactors in the San Diego region at the Westfield Mission Valley Shopping Center.

This project is exciting because it not only saves money, but it also saves energy, fits larger volumes of trash into our landfills, and moves our region towards greater energy independence. The use of solar-powered trash compactors has proven to be beneficial for many cities throughout the United States. Councilmember Frye is excited that Westfield is increasing their use of solar power by participating in this pilot program, which eventually could be expanded to other areas within the city. She is also very optimistic that residents will be able to recognize these environmental benefits as we continue to increase the use of renewable energy sources in San Diego.

The program is a 60-day pilot study to determine the value and benefits of these eco-friendly units that could revolutionize the trash collection business. Based on the results of the program during the busy holiday season at the Westfield Mission Valley Shopping Center, Councilmember Frye will consider expanding the study to other locations throughout the city.

These unique receptacles can hold up to four times more trash than regular cans. Holding more trash translates to time saved from having to empty garbage cans and more time dedicated to helping customers and keeping the center well-maintained. Additional benefits of the Big Belly machines include using only minimal sunlight to operate, enclosing odors and keeping vermin out while keeping trash in.

Seahorse Power, the developer of the Big Belly solar-powered trash compactor was formed in April 2003 and is located in Massachusetts. The company specializes in developing energy management technology and energy-efficient products. Their solar-powered trash compactors are used in municipalities in the US and Canada.

Councilmember Frye is pleased to see Westfield and Seahorse come together in order to promote the use of solar power, and hopes that this pilot program will lead to the use of solar-powered materials and components citywide.

CERT TRAINING

FIREFIGHTERS AND CITIZENS WORKING TOGETHER TO BUILD SAFER COMMUNITIES

Interested in helping your community? The San Diego Fire-Rescue Department and the City of San Diego are offering a wonderful program to help you do just that!

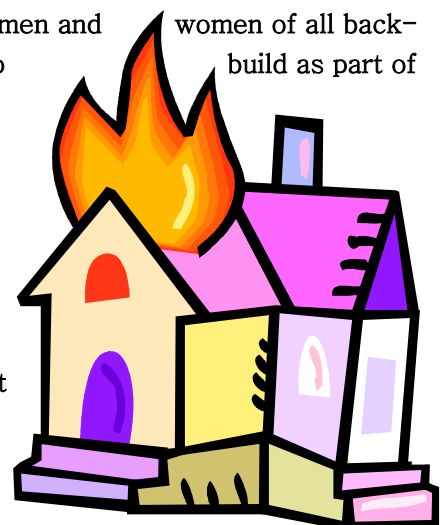

The Fire-Rescue Department has learned two valuable lessons from responding to disasters such as wildfires, earthquakes, floods, mudslides and terrorism events because 1) there are never enough public safety resources to get to every neighborhood quickly and 2) citizens want to help! Thus, the development of the Community Emergency Response Team, or CERT, is an innovative new program to help meet this need.

The goal of this program is to help families, neighbors, businesses and communities get through the first few hours or days following a disaster before help arrives. In the first 72 hours after a large-scale disaster, first responders may be overwhelmed due to the magnitude of the event. The availability of CERTs, made up of community members trained in basic disaster response, fire safety, light search and rescue, incident command organization and disaster medical operations, will help neighborhoods survive.

CERT San Diego is taught by San Diego Fire-Rescue personnel, and beginning in January 2007, they are offering tuition-free, six-week CERT academies for San Diego residents. Students learn how to make their homes and neighborhoods safer, build a disaster kit, learn to combat “the three killers,” learn to use fire extinguishers and learn how to form a team working with the Fire Department in disaster situations. Join the other hundreds of volunteers trained each year and help build CERTs in communities throughout San Diego. Annual refresher courses and drills, community activities and team building exercises keep CERT volunteers active throughout the year as well.

You may have recognized CERT graduates on television with their distinctive green vests, hats and ID cards identifying them as Disaster Service Workers. These dedicated volunteers are men and women of all backgrounds who are active in the community – or want to be. CERTs are easiest to build as part of existing communities, businesses and faith groups, non-profit organizations, neighborhood watches or homeowners associations; but individuals are encouraged to take part in these academies as well.

The 6-week academy will be held one day a week. You can attend classes on Wednesday evenings or Saturday mornings, from January 24th to March 3rd. For more information, please call (619) 533-3075 or send an email to cert@sandiego.gov. You can also find basic information on the CERT website at www.certsandiego.org.

Make a difference in your community...become a CERT volunteer!

Congratulations Jo-Ann Carini!

Each year at the Bayside Gala, community members and organizations are recognized for their wonderful work and dedication. Of these awards, one individual, business or organization gets to shine the most when they are given the Bob Williams Award for continuing to make Linda Vista a better place to live, work and raise a family.

This year's Bob Williams Award was given to Jo-Ann Carini. Jo-Ann is involved in numerous community organizations and dedicates each day to improving her community for young and old alike.

Councilmember Frye recognizes Jo-Ann as one of the driving forces in the community and appreciates her hard work.

Thanks for everything Jo-Ann!

Oh Christmas Tree, Oh Christmas Tree... ...What Do I Do With You Now?

Give a gift to the environment this season...recycle your Christmas tree! From December 26, 2006 through January 23, 2007, the City of San Diego Environmental Services Department has made it convenient for you to drop-off your Christmas tree at the following District Six locations:

Mission Bay: Sea World Drive @ Pacific Highway
Mission Valley: Target parking lot in Mission Valley Center

Or drop your tree off at the main landfill:

Miramar Landfill and Greenery Recycling:
Convoy St., north of Highway 52

Department staff ask that only residential trees be dropped off, with all ornaments, trash and tree stands removed. Drop-off hours are during daylight hours only. No commercial or fundraising loads are permitted.

For more information on Christmas Tree Recycling and holiday waste reduction ideas, call the Recycling Hotline at (858) 694-7000.

Free Lead-Based Paint Safety Training

To help the San Diego business community comply with local, state and federal regulations regarding lead hazards, the City of San Diego Environmental Services Department is conducting a free, one-day training on the responsibilities of working with lead-based paint. "Work Safely with Lead-Based Paint" takes place Tuesday, December 12, 2006 from 8:00 am to 4:30 pm at the City's Green Building, located at 9601 Ridgehaven Court in Kearny Mesa, 92123.

Reservations are required and can be made by clicking on "advance registration required" at the following website:

www.sandiego.gov/environmental-services/geninfo/leadtraining/shtml

You can also contact Angie Barnum at (858) 492-5015 for reservations or email Angie at ABarnum@sandiego.gov.

Painters, renovators, remodelers, maintenance personnel and other interested individuals are welcome to attend. Please note, there is a $10 refundable deposit to hold a reservation.

Councilmember Frye thanks the Environmental Services Department for keeping the public informed about this very important issue and encourages community members to attend.

Councilmember Frye Helps Clairemont Resident With Much Needed Home Repair

On November 3, 2006, with the help of the Imperial Counties Labor Council and Rebuilding Together San Diego, Councilmember Frye was successful in completing a very special project in District Six by providing some much needed plumbing upgrades and home repairs for a constituent on a fixed income and limited resources. Richard Miller, a 76 year-old man living with a head injury that left him disabled, found himself in an interesting predicament. In fact, as a 50+ year resident of San Diego, he had not had running water in his house for over 10 years! Thanks to the hard work and dedication of Project Manager Charles Espinoza and plumber Brian Lovell of the Labor Council, pipe fittings beneath two sinks, a plugged drainage pipe, and several other repairs were made to the home. In addition, Pamela Thorsch of Rebuilding Together San Diego donated a water heater and many other supplies which were installed by the Labor Council crew.

To address several outstanding water bill issues, Daniela Davidian of the City Attorney's office and a Neighborhood Code Compliance Officer also worked with Councilmember Frye's office to set Mr. Miller up on a payment plan, and activate a new water account for him. As a result of all this fine work, Richard now has hot water running freely through his bathroom and kitchen.

This was an inspiring example of a team of people working together to assist a community member in need. The efforts of all the people involved in this project proved to be tremendous, and we congratulate their time and energy in this endeavor. Councilmember Frye thanks The Imperial Counties Labor Council, Rebuilding Together San Diego, and the many employees, volunteers and concerned citizens who helped make this basic need a reality for Mr. Miller.

Welcome the Youth Services Librarian!

The Clairemont Branch Libraries have really big news! In November, they announced their appointment of the new Youth Services Librarian, Ms. Leslie McNabb. Ms. McNabb most recently served as an English and History teacher at Kearny High School, and has volunteered as a Library Intern at the San Diego Library.

Youth Services Librarians help plan and execute all of the youth events published in Frye Lights each month. And, with all the experience Ms. McNabb has with program planning, you can expect lots of exciting new programs at these libraries in 2007!

In fact, Ms. McNabb invites you to an exciting December Craft Program on Wednesday, December 14th at 4:00 pm. The event is for ages 4 and up and will be held at the North Clairemont Branch Library, located at 4616 Clairemont Drive.

Have a Story to Share? San Diego Residents Invited to Record Their Stories for Posterity

Beginning December 2nd, San Diegans have an opportunity to share their stories of love through a digital storytelling project sponsored by the San Diego Public Library, KPBS and the Media Arts Center of San Diego. The project, housed at the Downtown Central Library, invites the public to record their love stories on a three-to-five minute DVD through June 2007.

Stories help define who we are and how we fit into the world we live in. The story station gives you an opportunity to spotlight something you deeply care about. These stories will be available for others to see and hear, and will be part of a growing collection of stories that can help us all better understand one another.

Interested in creating your digital story? Please bring the following four things to your session:

- A story to tell (about how love has changed your life, or read a love letter you have sent or received),
- A CD with music to help reinforce the mood and message of your story,
- Photos, if you have them, to illustrate your story (digital pictures are best, but scanners are also available)
- Home movies on DVD or VHS.

If you don't have music, photographs or a video, you can still record your story. You will also be able to take a copy of your story home with you, on a CD or DVD provided by the Library.

The Digital Community Storytelling Station is in the Arts, Music & Recreation section of the Central Library, located at 820 E Street in Downtown San Diego. A representative from the Media Arts Center will be on site between 5:30 pm to 7:30 pm on Mondays and Wednesdays, and 2:30 pm to 5:30 pm on Saturdays to help. Additional information can be found at www.sandiegolibrary.org or call (619) 230-1938.

This project is sponsored in part by The Campaign for Love & Forgiveness, presented by KPBS. The campaign explores how love and forgiveness can effect meaningful change in individuals and communities, and invites participants to share their stories about the roles, meaning and power of love and forgiveness in their lives and their world.

COUNCILMEMBER FRYE INAUGURATED TO SECOND TERM

On Monday, December 4, 2006, I was officially inaugurated into my second term as City Councilmember for the Sixth District. I would like to thank the residents of District Six for allowing me to continue serving as their elected representative. I take my responsibilities to the community seriously, and will continue to work hard, speak out and ask the questions that many would prefer were left unspoken.

When I first ran for office in 2001, I had two main priorities - ensuring the public right to know through a more open government, and improving people's quality of life. And together, we have had many successes:

A series of ordinance changes took place in March 2004 that addressed closed session meetings, including the requirement that all closed session meetings would be transcribed, that detailed descriptions of all closed session items be provided to the public, and that the public be provided the opportunity to speak on all closed session items. The ultimate goal was to ensure that closed sessions were the exception to the open meeting requirements, not the rule.

Additionally, over 80 percent of the voters approved a 2004 Right to Know ballot measure that was written with the belief that the public has a right to a government that is open, responsive and accountable to the people it serves, and that the public, not the politicians, should decide on the people's right to know.

In Mission Valley, we have opened a Fire Station, built a new library and are working to establish the first community park. In Clairemont, we are finalizing the beautification of Balboa Avenue, have upgraded and enhanced neighborhood playgrounds and expanded the Tecolote Nature Center. In Linda Vista, we facilitated a storefront improvement program for small businesses, established a new park in the Silver Terrace area, and are beginning upgrades to the library and Kearny Mesa Park. In Serra Mesa and Kearny Mesa, we recently opened a new library, dedicated open space in Ruffin Canyon and are in the process of undergrounding overhead wires for over 900 residents. District-wide, we have worked to slow down speeding traffic and made sidewalks more accessible. I helped establish and now chair the San Diego River Conservancy and most recently, we saw the completion of Fiesta Island Road Improvements and had clean sand added to a portion of Mission Bay Park, formerly known as "Stinkies."

But even with a slightly more open government, and some wonderful neighborhood improvements, our city is in deep trouble....and the problem is not just financial. However, from adversity comes opportunity. So, I would like to propose the following recommendations:

We must welcome and encourage meaningful public participation by becoming a city that values the work of the community and its organizations such as planning groups and town councils. Rather than trying to trip people up, we must lift people up. Second, as a City Council, we must bring the financial reporting practices for our city's bond offerings and financial statements into conformance with Generally Accepted Government Audit Standards and all applicable laws and regulations. This includes instituting regular, stable accounting, auditing, and actuarial practices for our city so the public, investors and the capital markets know the true state of our books. It also requires that the City Council establish an independent audit committee separate from the management. Third, we must adjust the pension benefits to levels the city can afford to pay. We should lead by example to begin the discussion and help reduce the pension costs. Fourth, be honest and tell folks that growth and development cost a lot of money. The more growth and development that we allow, the more money we need to provide services for the new communities. Unless and until we include the real costs -all of them- our older communities will continue to suffer as a result. Fifth, fund those priorities that protect the public health and safety and comply with our City Charter requirements for providing basic government services. It is not acceptable that we cannot pay a competitive salary to our police officers and that so many are leaving to other cities because we have cut their pay. At a minimum, we must make a midyear adjustment and stop the police exodus. Finally, if we are ever going to solve the financial crisis, we must tell the truth about all of our city's finances. This includes the pension's real annual required contribution not just for one year, and not just the number we can get away with, but the real one with all the contingent liabilities.

It seems to me that no one wants to tell the public just how bad things really are financially. For example, we have over half billion dollars worth of non-public safety operating unfunded needs as of August 2004 that do not seem to appear anywhere in the five-year plan. Those unfunded needs are those services that are considered necessary in order for departments or programs to fulfill their mission, meet mandates or simply provide optimum service levels to the residents and taxpayers. They include things like libraries, parks and recreation programs for children and seniors, and sidewalk maintenance and street repairs, just to name a few.

Right now, we are in a race to the bottom. But no matter how much we streamline, optimize or outsource, it will not solve the problem. Nor will selling off our public lands or borrowing our children's future. We need to get real about revenues and expenses and we need to do it soon.

Allow me to close with a quote from Coach John Wooden: "In looking forward, I never expected miracles to happen. Instead, I expected the slow, steady progress that comes with industry and patience. Miracles were welcome, of course. I just felt more comfortable focusing on that which I had some degree of control. Miracles were under someone else's control..."

On behalf of myself and my staff, we wish you all a safe and happy holiday. Thank you to the many community members who joined me on the day of inauguration, and thank you to the many more who provide their input and work diligently with us every day. I am proud to be your representative and to help achieve the goals of making District Six a better place to live, work and play!

Sincerely,

Honna Frye
